What you'll learn

In the first year you will study the process of refurbishing a small building, including the surveying, designing and implementation of the works. As well as basic skills in technology, design, and science and materials, you will also develop CAD skills that can be used elsewhere in the course.

In the second year you will consider the technology behind more complex, multi-storey buildings. This involves exploring the importance of sustainability, health and safety, and management in the construction process.

Assessments / Exams

You will study eight units over two years. Each unit will be assessed through project work. This includes written assignments, report writing, and oral presentations.

Entry requirements

You will have GCSEs (grade C and above) in Maths and English. You also need:

- a National Diploma in Construction Level 3, or
- an Extended Diploma in Construction Level 3, or
- a National Certificate Level 3 (minimum 12 units), or
- a suitable Bridging Course (National Award), having also obtained an NVQ Level 3 in Carpentry or Brickwork, or
- a CIOB Diploma in Site Management.

What this course leads to

Successful completion of this course means you can join the second year of a degree course in a related discipline.

Alternatively, you can enter employment with your qualification.
